WHEN A VERMONT BACHELOR FELL A VICTIM

Up in Vermont a number of years ago there lived an bonest, good-natured old bachelor. By some means he had never paid very much attention to the charms of the blushing damsels and the buxom lassies of the Vermont bills. Suddenly, however, there shone in upon the life of this lovable old character a bright light known as the "torch of Hymen." Somehow this torch was so fascinating that he did not exactly want to get out of its rays. Still, he was not content to let it shine upon him from a distance. Somebow he wanted the torch a little near-

In this same community there dwelled also a blushing, pretty and charming, though somewhat aged, widow. There seemed to be some connection between the torch of Hymen and this same widow. In fact, the widow seemed to have absolute possession of the torch and was able to direct its rays in any direction she desired.

Then in this place there Hved a number of other characters. Some of and are the very best plants grown these liked the bachelor, whose name was Reuben Rodney and some did not like him. Those who did not like him hated him; and thus life was not always smooth and lovely.

This widow, who was not too old either to love or be loved, will be portrayed to perfection in the play at the Normal Tuesday night by Miss Spriggs. That prince of fun makers, Hugh Biles, will take the part of the bachelor, or "Uncle Rube."

W. H. Webb returned at noon Saturday from St. Louis where he had been buying new spring goods for Ramsey's Bargain store. Messrs. Ramsey and Webb are busy tidying up their new store for the opening next wee, when they will have in a nice stock of attractive spring mer-

Two or three days ago J. O. Tipton placed an ad in the News for some teams. He intended for it to run only one time, and the results from it were all that he wanted. However, through an oversight the item was were more than any one could have expected. It kept Mr. Tipton jumping to answer the inquiries that youred in He is thoroughly convinced that everybody reads these ads.

PATRONS OF IRVING SCHOOL HOLD MEETING

The patrons club of the irving school met at the school building Friday at 8 p. m. and a most pleasant eventing was spent. An interesting program was rendered, after which a social hour was spent together and refreshments served.

The parents have come to realize that to give the child the best in education the school and the home must be brought in close relation. That they themselves must become familiar with and help to sustain the life of the school. The school should be the social center of the community. Let us make it so in Ada.

A play is to be given next Friday evening. The proceeds from which are to pay for improvement made on the school grounds. Watch for notice of the play later.

PREPARING FOR ANOTHER BATTLE IN MEXICO

Naco, Ariz., March 14 .- With the remnants of the Federal garrisons of Northern Sonora-no more than 5,000 men-Gen. Ojeda tonight is defying attack from more than 1,500 state troops. At Naco, Sonora, just over the line, preparations are under way for the expected assault in the morning.

"We will fight declared the federal commander, as he gave orders for immediate preparation late today. Trenches were dug near and fortifications built on a hill commanding the approach to the town. The customs house and postoffice equipment were rushed to the American side and the railway company moved over all equip

With the men of the Agua Prieta garrison and refugee troops defeated at Nacozari and El Tigee, Ojeda must confront 1,500 Constitutionalists moving against Naco in three divisions and eager to occupy the only remain ing port on the Arizona border. Naco is a subordinate port to Nogales, located between Nogales and Agua Prieta. It is the terminal of a branch of the Southern Pacific of Mexico. which runs from Naco southwest to the mining centers of Canala and Del Rio and northwest again to Nogales, where it connects with the Sonora Road.

Late today Ojeda, with eighty men, reconnoitered to locate the enemy.

The State troops under Colonels Calles and Bracamente from Agua Prieta, were reported within only nine miles miles of the border port. Ojeda expect ed resistance from Cananea, where a Federal garrison of 200 or 300 men is located, but the Cananea Federals have permitted state troops to enter the mining town, and so far have not moved to the assistance of their gu perior commander at Naco.

Ojeda previously had evacuated Agua Prieta in face of a strong advance of state troops. His retreat to Chihuahua is cut off, and the news that Nogales has fallen makes his position still more difficult. To retreat south he is sure to encounter the strong groups of Constitutionalists Two deaths are reported in Texas roaming the interior country.

FADS AND FASHIONS

New York, March 15 .- The importers have given quite interesting exhiitions of the latest models for Spring and Summer wear and among them are some exceedingly attractive creaions. There is still a strong tendency noticeable to retain the Turkish method of draping full skirts toward the front instead of toward the back, although an effort was made last autumn to reverse the fashion, however without success. Yet, after all, it is quite possible that the next few weeks will se the last of skirts that that have all their fullness drawn to the middle front of the waist line by pleats. The line is not good and not even the most expert artist in drapery can make it attractive except in a few rare cases.

During the past two months the designers showed a desire to drop the drapery low in front and pull it up to the middle of the back on bias lines across the knees. The only disconcerting feature of this was the fear that it would lead to the buckle or at least the effect of a buckle in stiff drapery at the end of the spine. After all, the majority of women can wear drapery that has its fullness in the back at the waist line far better than they can wear drapery arranged the other way. As for the pannier, there is no longer doubt of its popularity. It may not be placed exactly at the hips and it may not be stiffened out in an extreme fashion, but it is present in some form or fashion on many of the new frocks.

With it has come in the Watteau hanging free of the waist and made of the same material but edged with another. When this panel is used it is held down to the figure with the Eastern sash which crosses the hips at the side, lifts up to the waist in front and is loosely knotted below the waist in the back.

Practically all the suits shown at the recent openings were conspicuously trimmed with buttons of original shapes and colors. Sometimes, as in the case of a ratine frock in sulbest in the state. This department is phur yellow, the large ball buttons black and white with a colored suit. They were liberally displayed on almost every skirt shown.

All these skirts had drapery, but it was of a restrained sort in the wool of intermediate grades; Mildred Tim- materials. The kind that crosses in the front or at the side, leaving the skirt open to considerably above the ankle, was a characteristic of several gowns. You'll laugh till you cry, and cry till One of shepherd's plaid was open in you laugh. The play has been under front half way to the knee. With this was worn a cutaway coat of black satin. The slit is really necessary, as the skirt is so narrow below the knees that walking would be impossible if it were closed all around. In some cases the drop skirt also is made extremely narrow, but is slit up in the back where the opening will not show. In this way a surprising ease sonnel of the faculty of this school of movement is given, while the effect
